With lockdown restrictions beginning to ease and workplaces across the UK starting to reopen, you may be starting to think about what needs to be done in yours to guarantee your people a safe working environment. Most businesses are probably looking at a phased return, with some staff continuing to work from home for a while longer where this is practical.

At Hunter Adams we are experienced HR consultants, and for weeks have been helping our 700 clients to prepare to resume their pre-COVID activities. With this in mind we are now offering a comprehensive 'Return to Work' pack, including everything businesses need to embark on the new normal in a safe and compliant way.

Our Return to Work packs contain:

- A 'return to work' checklist
- Management guidance
- A 'key HR considerations' document (looking at immediate return and ongoing changes)
- A homeworking policy template
- Two hours of time with an experienced HR consultant to develop your personalised action plan
- Discounted ongoing support if required
